Senior Services of Will County to Take Over Former Target Building
Creating New Ovation Center

Romeoville will soon be home to Senior Services of Will County. The organization offers assistance to seniors through services, programs, resources, and education. They will be moving into the space once occupied by Target along Weber Road.

“Senior Services of Will County is an incredible resource for our aging population,” said Mayor John Noak. “We’re very pleased to partner with them as we believe our senior residents will benefit immensely.”

“Thanks to the amazing partnership and vision of the Village of Romeoville, Seniors Services of Will County will take a historic step toward meeting the needs of the more than 30,000 seniors who live within 10 miles of the location,” stated Barry Kolanowski, Chief Executive Officer of Senior Services.

The facility, called The Ovation Center, will provide an upscale senior experience with programs to enhance senior living. It will also act as a special events venue, including a 900 seat ballroom, breakout rooms to accommodate conferences, and leased spaces that provide services to the aging population’s specific needs.
